Hudspeth makes u-turn on chief executive post

PLANS to see the chief executive post at Huddersfield County Council could be overturned after the secretary's leader has (Hudspeth) admitted he "may have acted too hastily" in making the decision.

On February 13th members voted to see the chief executive post after current chief executive Joanne Bennett announced she would be stepping down in the summer.

By Adam Pinn
adampinn@huddersfieldreport.co.uk

The move had been put forward for Cllr Hudspeth to act in a real emergency measure to secure the council's future.

But the council's decision to do this after receiving legal advice that the decision could stand without obtaining full consent added that he was taking the opportunity to reverse the proposal.

At first, I said before the county council's decision was made, I had asked members but I thought it was important to ensure members about the risks.

"That is why it is right that we take more time to consider the options and involve the council's members."

"Last night, I was listening and I accept I may have acted too hastily."

He said: "I am sorry that the proposal was not handled as part of the budget process."

"The council has unprecedented budget pressures and we need to act quickly to ensure that we are not in a position to have to do this."

The 12-year-old boy was seen to be about 12 or 13 years old, and of slim build. He was wearing a bright pink long-sleeved top with the name pulled up.

Detective Inspector Paul Powell said: "I think it is very rare for the public that would be seen to be in such a position."

Andrew on July last year after the son Skye was diagnosed with a brain tumour.

Five year old Skye died on August 10 and the charity has been completing work since then. The charity has been working to help families in need.

"When Skye was diagnosed there was a sense of disbelief among our group of friends and Edward."

"I suppose in some ways there will be a lot more work to do as the son Skye was diagnosed with a brain tumour."

"When I first met Skye I was not in a state of mind to be a father. I was not in a state of mind to be a father. I was not in a state of mind to be a father."

"I am running for Blue Day Thinking to do that money could be used as well as to help the children and to help the children."

Edward also took part in the Oxford half marathon in October last year when he and his wife Skye ran 1000 for the charity.

"That challenge Edward and I did for the charity."

There have been many other challenges for the charity. The charity has been working to help families in need.

Oxford houses now less affordable than London

THE difference between average pay and house prices in Oxford is now higher than London, says research by an Oxford University professor.

Between October 2006 and January this year Oxford house prices rose more than 50 per cent, the average annual increase.

This is compared to houses rising 34 times the average salary in London.

The research was published by Danny Darling, the university's faculty director of property.

He said: "Compared with earlier decades, house prices across the UK are extremely high when compared with the average-life salary pay."

"The more affordable parts of the country also have high ratios that put local relatively better compared with the unpopulated regions of remote housing costs in London and Oxford."

The average cost of a house sold in 2014 was £156,700 while the average salary for the city's workers was £26,581 in London, while the aver-

Average house prices in Oxford are now higher than in London, says research by an Oxford University professor.

Prices were taken down last month and will be replaced by a smaller bridge.

It comes as a reflection of the value of the college's new building in comparison with its work and among students.

"The better the house prices are, the greater the pressure on the private sector to provide housing for people with no other choice."

Other UK cities with high house prices compared to incomes were Cambridge, at 34 times higher, Brighton, at 33 times higher and Reading, eight times higher.

The cheapest was Liverpool, where house prices are 5.4 times more than the average salary.

Northcourt trees get the axe

A ROW of trees that run along the site of the new Northcourt Road, Oxford, has been removed.

The trees were taken down last month and will be replaced by a smaller bridge.

It comes as a reflection of the value of the college's new building in comparison with its work and among students.

College principal, Teresa Kelly said: "We could not be more excited for everyone to see the huge changes the college has undergone."

"We are in the top 10 per cent of colleges nationally and we want our facilities to be at the same standard."

The new building will allow us to cut out our previous and provide better and more advanced facilities for students, improving their employability skills and their future."

Work has also recently started at the college's Wilson campus where the library may be taken out in a new building that will include classrooms, a computer centre and a new student union building.

The trees have been removed as part of the college building on Northcourt Road

Oxford vs Cambridge: the Boat Race countdown

THE Hilary Road Sports Centre at Oxford has seen its fair share of sporting excitement, most recently when Roger Federer broke his four-month exile at the club's training track.

And it is also the training base at Oxford University Boat Club who are hard at work preparing for the Boat Race against Cambridge on April 23.

Six training a week the rowers are trying for a highly sought after row of eight in the world's oldest rowing race in the world, the Boat Race, which takes place on the River Thames in London. The rowers are working hard to be perfect.

The once a week training is not to be missed on March 15.

"It's a really hard and busy but it's having a good time doing it," said Matt Linton, who is a member of the team.

"We usually do about half our session at Hilary Road and the the water and the weather is still to come up before the race.

"The race is a really exciting event."

"I think with the history and the profile, it's a really cool to be involved in that."

Another rowing highlight is the debut in this year's race at Morgan Gendall, who has previously competed for Essex University in America and at the Oxford vs World Rowing Championships.

He said, "This year has been a big challenge for me from the start. But it's definitely a learning experience to be able to adjust and rowing with Oxford."

"It's completely different. Everything from the culture to the technique in the general approach to rowing - it's really different to Cambridge."

Pupils paint faces to fundraise for charity

By Helen Pinn

Children's Hospital, Oxford

CHILDREN from St Andrew's Primary School in East Henchington have painted their faces to help raise for people affected by weather disasters around the world.

The youngsters had their faces decorated but Friday is recognised as Memento Mori Day, in which children's faces are painted with symbols.

Money raised by the school will be sent to the Catholic Church of England's official charity CAFOD to support their Lord's Day. The school is also raising money by supporting people rebuilding after floods and storms.

St Andrew's headteacher Helen Pinn said: "Our children have been learning about how young people around the world are being affected by the weather. It's a sad story, but we're trying to do something about it."

"As teachers, we're always trying to get pupils to think about how we can help our neighbours, so we're proud that they are showing their concern for people in other countries."

"We got the idea for this past year to help the children to think about how we can help our neighbours, so we're proud that they are showing their concern for people in other countries."

CAFOD provides funding to communities in Asia, Africa and Latin America where weather disasters strike and help people to rebuild their lives.

Julian Downey, secretary of the school, said: "We have been told that the children of St Andrew's are making a real difference to people around the world where there are vulnerable to floods and devastating storms."

"That is why the UK is the most generous to CAFOD's largest fund appeal, to help with more disasters across Africa and Asia, and to help the effects of extreme weather."

Future of WW1 project secure with £50k grant

THE first of a new initiative project to celebrate the story of a First World War soldier has been named after it received a £50,000 grant from the War Office.

The project, which launched last year, aims to help young people using social media to follow the story and find out more about the war.

David and Phyllis MP Ed Harvey helped get the grant.

He said: "Creating a new project to help young people find out more about the war is a real challenge, but the project is a truly innovative and effective way to do so."

"I have young people who are already checking out the First World War project and I'm sure that they'll be just that much more interested in the war and its impact on the world."

The project is a truly innovative and effective way to do so. The project is a truly innovative and effective way to do so.

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9x9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3x3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions" or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Top folk trio hit Didcot

CONSIDERED to be one of the most accomplished folk musicians in the country, Peter Knight will be at Didcot's Greenmarket Arts Centre this Saturday along with fellow musicians Roger Plank and Vincent Malton.

The three friends came together to launch Peter Knight's Deception. They are at the Station Road centre as part of their UK tour which will see the trio perform at an independent, busy and late-night venue ending the tour at home in Banbury.

Peter who was once a member of the popular folk rock group Kinship, says, "I've had a lot of gratitude for this tour so far."

"Roger and Vincent are wonderful to play music with," Peter told the Gazette.

"Roger was a beautiful accident and we always enjoyed ourselves when we were playing at that time."

"We mark tonight as the end of an era, but we will still be playing our best, and the best between us allows us to be completely open and creative when playing together. We are lucky."

He added: "This will be our final performance at the Greenmarket Arts Centre, so it's always good to play at a new venue."

"The 17-year old was a member for five years before leaving the group in 2007 just before the final year as a two-piece band."

He has since worked with musician friends all over the world and described as a successful solo career which includes three solo albums.

"Our music is based on traditional music from the British Isles, and blended in a way that does not hinder our musical creativity," he said.

"We all enjoy music from other cultures and have sometimes influenced the lyrics of our musical vocabulary. Being a trio allows plenty of space for the three of us to play the best music we can."

"Inspiration for new musical ideas from all sorts of unexpected sources, and not always from other musicians."

"I do hear lots of music that I love and bring it into hearing it is enough for its essence to feed into any new music subconsciously," he added.

Tickets cost from £14.40 for 18 and the 19+ seats £16.
Call 01235 331 444 for tickets.

Railwaymen back to winning ways

JOINT manager Les Crane has an optimistic outlook. There can only be so many times you can push on to replace the place in the Southern League Division 1 South & West play off spots after missing league leaders Exeter City on Saturday.

The Railwaymen came within a goal of a win in their last four matches, but second half goals from Adam Llewellyn and the goals John Molyneux scored a surprise 1-1 victory.

"We played during the week that maybe against the best team in the league our strategy might finally change and that is what happened," said Crane.

"I think that can lock out our season now and give us a bit of momentum. A lot of the games we have coming up."

"I've been saying for a little while that we just need more of a team that can play the game as we have been playing as a team."

local rivals Watford Town on Saturday looking to continue their excellent momentum.

The hosts have struggled this season and inevitably had their sides put to the place where the railwaymen had Crane's men have a tactical plan against conspiracy.

He said: "It's not a bad thing to expect a defeat very early in the season."

"I think it's going to be more about mental attitude than about quality and skill."

Crane's men prepared to keep everything there for a long time.

"You shouldn't need much convincing for a local derby."

"People will talk at the table and say we should win it, but it's all about who wants it more on the day."

"It is what it is, we're with the quality we have, in our side we should win, but if we don't fancy it we could find ourselves in trouble."

Rob thriving in London Welsh

ROBERT Rob Glynn is thriving in his new home at London Welsh despite the odds against him in the Arbro Premiership.

The 31-year-old joined the club in 2014 after being released by Cardiff City. He has since moved to London Welsh and is thriving in his new home.

"I'm not personally in any more danger than I was before," he said.

"I'm just trying to be a good player and to have a crack at the Premiership and at it being something I thought I might not do."

BALDOCK RESCUES UNITED A DRAW

U's leave it late to claim share of the spoils at home to Morecambe

A LATE strike from George Baldock rescued Oxford United's unbeaten run to three games with a 1-1 draw at home to Oxford United on Tuesday evening as Ray Belton's side.

A lockdown in the final hour of the match left an opportunity for Baldock to score from a free kick and he did so, rescuing a point for the home side. Baldock's rescue came with a late free kick effort from outside the area.

The draw came days after a hard fought 0-0 stalemate at home to Portsmouth which had driven United players for their determined performance.

U's have now been plagued with 'Tuesday's' showing but head coach Shaun Derry has defended his side's performance.

"We've shown a tremendous bit of character in the second half," he told the club.

"Obviously we started the game poorly, which didn't help and going behind is difficult in any game of football."

He continued: "I felt there was a lot of anxiety about the game tonight but it probably helped see the players a little bit, but they showed character."

Gloucester's Baldock made a late goal after a set piece, but the first team were playing Oxford on loan from Millers. Baldock had made his last start in 2010. "It's a shame to see him in a situation like this," he said.

"We've taken a point, which is a good result, but we've lost a game to Portsmouth and we have to realize where we are at the moment."
